Overview

- Attraction in Brief
- Humour in Conversation
- Connecting in Conversation
- Attraction in Conversation
- Authentic Expression of an Attractive Identity

ATTRACTION

- Attraction is a Feeling
- Often unconscious
- Danger of conversation is that it's verbal
- The verbal is processed in the Prefrontal Cortex
- Whereas attraction occurs in the other parts of the brain (unconscious, emotional response)

Attraction from Conversation

- Emotions over Logic
- Watch what she says, NOT what she does
- Be Opinionated (“Live in your reality”)
- Be Interested
- Be Gone

Here Are Some Quick Wins

- Humour: NEVER take yourself too seriously. Be ready to laugh at yourself.
- Agree and Joke: “Yes And…”
- Positive Misinterpretation
- Pink Elephant
  - Drop and Go. Reversal.
- Future Projections (calibrate with takeaways)
- Role Playing (husband-wife, exes, boss-secretary, etc.)
  - Best to a 3rd party

Train Your Spontaneity

- Stream of Consciousness exercises
- Notice “what everyone else is thinking and feeling but is not saying out loud”
- Say “what everyone else is thinking and feeling but is not saying out loud”
- CALIBRATION

True Social Freedom

- The more POWERFUL you are, the more SOCIALLY FREE you are
- Power is the strongest attraction trigger to women
- It is in the best interests of the top 1% to keep the bottom 99% socially shackled and hence, powerless

Social Freedom Reflection

- Reflect on the areas and times in your life when you're NOT socially free
  - Brainstorm and list those down with specific examples. (Note: Whatever you've written is not enough. Keep forcing yourself to write until the time is up.)
  - Go through your list and analyse whether each item is rational
- Observe your level of Social Freedom as you go about your daily life

Conversation Techniques

- Opening
- Investment
- Threading
- Screening & Qualifying
- Frames

Openers

- Situational
- Default Openers
- Dramatic Direct
- Implicit Direct

What REALLY Opens

- Mindset
- Intent
  - Value Exchange
  - Making other people’s lives better

Right After the Opener…

- You need her to INVEST
- Cost-Worth Connection
- What happens if you don’t let her Invest

Conversation Structure

- Basic Structure
  - Your Question/Statement
  - Her Response
  - Your Response to Her Response
  - PAUSE (hold the tension, feel the vacuum)
  - She Reinitiates

Conversation Hook Point

- Minimum Investment Required for Key Escalations
- What happens if you don’t Pause
- The more she talks, the better (increase her Investment)

Screening & Qualifying

- Basic technique that mimics naturally attractive conversation patterns
- Done effectively:
  - Increases Investment
  - Demonstrates Value
  - Creates Believability
- High status people do this naturally, ALL THE TIME
- Habituate yourself to THINK this way and talk this way as a default conversational style

Screening

- BE INTERESTED
  - Be Open-Minded, Humble, Ready to Learn From Others
  - Requires an Attractive Identity (more on that later)
  - Not an Interrogation or Interview
  - Be Casual About It. Start Small and Build.
  - Real vs. False
  - Screen with your Non-Verbals (more on that later)
  - Focus on Non-Physical

Screening Groundwork

- Brainstorm 5 non-physical traits of your Ideal Woman
- Brainstorm 5 non-physical traits characterising you
- Brainstorm 5 topics you are knowledgeable about and enjoy talking about
- Circle items on more than one of those lists

Stock Screens

- “I like X.”
- “Being X is really important to me. It’s something I really like about so-and-so friend.”
- “All my friends are X. Hmm, you seem X. Am I right?”
- “You strike me as an X person. You’re X, aren’t you?”
- “I can tell you’re really X. But are you Y, as well?”
- “Are you more X or Y? You’re not Y, right?”

Allow Her To Open Up

- Make room for Investment
- “Why”
- “How did it feel to [xyz]?”
- Sprinkle in Humour

Qualification

- Need to Qualify to lock in your Value and Believability gains
- Use the word “friend” in your qualification
- Qualify with your Non-Verbals (more on that later)

Stock Qualifications

- “I like how you’re so X.”
- “Wow, you really are X. I like that about you.”
- “Wow, you’re so X. Cool.”
- “You’re so X. I love it.”
- “Ok, ok, you’re X. You can be my friend now.”
- “I love having such an X friend.”
- “Man, you ARE X. It’s great to be friends with you.”
- “Geez, you’re just like my friend, Jennifer.”
- “You remind me a lot of my friends. You’re so X, too!”

Qualification as Technique

- Calibrate using Takeaways (“Too bad you’re such an X”)
- Always reward the effort
- Advanced: Variable Reinforcement
  - Dolphins and Slot Machines

Transitioning from Opener

- Observational
  - “You seem…”
  - “That’s a…”
- Backstory
  - “I just got back from…”
- Tacit

Threading

- How to continue conversations forever
- How to control the conversations to go wherever you want them to
- Good vs. Bad Threads
  - Logical/Rational vs. Emotions/Feelings
  - Good: Any authentic expression of your personality, thoughts, opinions, passions, preferences, etc.
- Threads: Words, Phrases, Themes
- Thread Amplification
- Thread Reversal

Framing

- Frame: The interpretive assumptions underlying an interaction
- “Own the Frame, Win the Game”
- Everyone uses Frames, whether they like it or not
- Every social encounter brings different Frames together
- Conflicting Frames do not coexist in the same time and place for long. They crash into each other, and one of the gains control
- Only one Frame survives. The others break and are absorbed. Stronger frames always absorb weaker frames.

Typical Flirting Frames

- Her: “I’m the prize.”
- Her: “I’m of higher value. You’re of lower value.”
- Her: “You have to win me over.”
- Her: “You are supplicating to me.”
- Her: “You should try harder.”

Optimal Flirting Frames

- “It’s always on. She wants me.”
- “I can make a girl’s dreams come true.”
- “I can make hot women wet.”
- “I don’t ever need permission to talk to anyone.”
- “Everything I say is great, and everything is going according to plan.”
- “I discover her boundaries; I don’t prejudge them for her.”

Natural Attraction Frames

- “You’re good-looking, but looks aren’t everything. What else do you have going for you?”
- “I like meeting new, interesting people. It’s something I do all the time because I’m a social person, which makes the world a happier place.”
- “People want to hear my ideas.”
- “I’m equally important to the people I look up to.”
- “Once she gets to know me, she’ll love me.”

From Platonic to Sexual

- Platonic -> Personal
  - From objective, external “thing”… to personal topics about “you” and “me”
    - Moving to “we”
- Personal ->Sexual
  - Sexual qualifications (Not only are you [sexy], but you’re X, too)
